Brother Follows Aged Sister In Death When J. C. Eckenrode Expires

26 Hours After Mrs. Margaret Jane Rogers, 94, Dies, Last Member Of Family, Her Brother, Jacob Eckenrode, 90, Succumbs; Many Others Claimed By Death.

Death of a brother and sister within a day claimed the last members of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Eckenrode, pioneer residents of Adams county.

Following his sister, Mrs. Margaret Jane Rogers, 94, York street, in death within 26 hours, Jacob C. Eckenrode, Civil war veteran and retired farmer, died at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. George Slonaker, Breckenridge street.

Mr. Eckenrode, who would have celebrated his ninetyeth birthday anniversary, May 13, died of pneumonia, following a lengthy illness from a complication of diseases. For many years, he resided with his nephew, Paul B. Ramer, Chambersburg street, but for several months had resided at the Slonaker home.

Here During Battle

He was born on what is now the Leister farm, along the Baltimore 'pike, just south of here, and was residing on the Henry Spangler farm, along the Emmitsburg road, when the Battle of Gettysburg was fought. He was advised to evacuate, and moved to the vicinity of Emmitsburg; luckily for them, for it was from the woods on the Spangler farm that Pickett launched his memorable and futile charge. During the heavy firing in connection with Pickett's charge, the evacuated Eckenrode home was hit three times, and the barn, which was struck, was burned to the ground.

Mr. Eckenrode enlisted for service in Co. G, 101st Pennsylvania volunteers, after the battle of Gettysburg, and was next to the last survivor of that company, the last being Hanson W. Lightner, North Stratton street. Mr. Eckenrode served nearly a year in the Union army, and after being discharged returned to farming, working, at various times, in the vicinity of Gettysburg and Bendersville. He moved to Gettysburg in 1884, and lived at the Ramer home on Chambersburg street until he removed to the Slonaker home.

Funeral on Tuesday

Mr. Eckenrode was married twice, his first wife, Miss Keckler, dying in January, 1879, and his second wife, Miss Elizabeth Becker, dying August 1, 1922. Surviving are the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Annie Heath, Wildwood, New Jersey; William Eckenrode, Baltimore; Mrs. George Slonaker, Gettysburg; Miss Emma Eckenrode, Pittsburgh, and Harry Eckenrode, Altoona. Twenty-one grandchildren and 41 great-grandchildren also survive.

He was a member of the Corporal Skelly G. A. R. post here and St. Francis Xavier Catholic church and the beneficial society of that church.

Funeral services Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Francis Xavier Catholic church, the Rev. Father Mark E. Stock officiating at a requiem high mass. Interment in the Catholic cemetery.

Members of the G. A. R. will attend the services in a body, and the Sons of Veterans will furnish a firing squad and bugler.

Harry S. Stauffer

Harry S. Stauffer, 82, a former resident of Lancaster county, but a retired resident of Littlestown for a number of years, died at his home Sunday evening at 9:55 o'clock from pneumonia. He was taken ill last Friday.

He is survived by his widow, whose maiden name was Miss Carrie LeFevre; three children, the Rev. P. B. Stauffer, Baltimore; Mrs. John Crunkank, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Thomas Scott, Bristol; one brother, John Stauffer, Landisville, Lancaster county.

He was a member of the Free and Accepted Masons lodge, No. 551, Mt. Joy, Lancaster county, and belonged to St. John's Episcopal church, York.

Funeral services at the home Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, the Rev. A. M. Wright, pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church, Littlestown, officiating. Interment in Mt. Carmel cemetery, Littlestown.

Infant Dies

Clain McClean, Jr., aged one year, nine months, died at his home in Union township, Sunday evening at 9:45 o'clock, of pneumonia.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clain McClean, and the following brothers and sisters: Raymond, Glenn, Paul, Harry, Earl, Dale, Mary, Margaret, Frances and Dottie, all at home.

Funeral services Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the home, the Rev. A. C. Crone officiating. Interment at Bendersville.

Former Sheriff Dies Saturday

Elias Fissel, 75, a former sheriff of Adams county, one-time steward at the county home and for a number of years a hotel proprietor here and at Littlestown, died at his home in Hanover, at 9:10 o'clock Saturday evening, from a complication of diseases.

Before being elected sheriff of the county in 1908, Mr. Fissel served as steward at the county home. His term as sheriff was for three years.

For a number of years, he was proprietor of the old Wabash hotel, Baltimore street, now the Bender apartments' building. In Littlestown, he conducted the Central hotel and the Ocker house. He moved to Hanover from Littlestown three years ago.

Funeral Tuesday

He was married twice, his first wife being the late Miss Ellen Diehl. His second wife, who survives, was Mrs. Annie Crouse. Other survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Elmer Kepner, York; Mrs. Edgar Rittinger, Harrisburg; Mrs. T. S. Blocher, Littlestown, and Mrs. L. A. Kohler, Littlestown, and the following step-children: Mrs. Charles Winthrop, Littlestown; Mrs. Clarence Myers, Hanover; Mrs. Leroy Wine, Hanover; Vernon and Rosella Crouse, at home, and Ernest Crouse, Hanover.

Two brothers, William and Cyrus Fissel, both of Greenmount, Maryland; four sisters, Mrs. Annie Little, Harrisburg; Mrs. Ida Bowers, Hanover; Mrs. Willie Chambers, Adams county, and Mrs. George Kebel, Fairfield; 14 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services at the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. D. S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Littlestown, officiating. Interment in Evergreen cemetery here.

84-Year-Old Veteran Dies

E. M. Wierman, 84, civil war veteran and one-time candidate for sheriff of Adams county, died at his home in Centre Mills, Saturday, from the infirmities of age.

He was a member of Co. K, Warren's Independent Cavalry during the civil war. He was a life-long Democrat, and was defeated for the office of sheriff by a small majority. He served as school director in Tyron township for many years. He voted in last November's general election.

He was a retired farmer, and a member of the Bendersville Methodist Episcopal church.

Surviving are the following sons and daughters: Mrs. George S. Wagner, Gardners; Mrs. Harvey Shearer and Miss Harriet Wierman, Aspers; Mrs. M. A. Heller, Guernsey; Miss Sara Wierman, Greystone Park, New Jersey; John P. Wierman and J. Emory Wierman, Harrisburg. One brother, A. N. Wierman, Bendersville, and two sisters, Mrs. Sabiah Reed, Bendersville, and Mrs. Sara Yeungst, Gardners R. D.; 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home, the Rev. A. C. Crone officiating. Interment at Bendersville.

Major Hersey To Be R. O. T. C. Guest

Major General Mark L. Hersey, retired army officer, who was in command of the 58th Infantry at Camp Colt here during its early days in 1917, will be the guest of honor at the annual military ball which will be given by the R. O. T. C. unit at Gettysburg college in the Eddie Plank Memorial gymnasium, Friday evening.

Major General Hersey, who later commanded the Fourth division, organized from units stationed here, overseas, is well-known to many Gettysburgians.

The gymnasium is to be decorated in true military style for the occasion, and many friends of members of the unit are expected to attend.

POPULATION OF TOWN IS 5,919

Gettysburg Shows Increase Of 33.3 Per Cent During Last Nine Years, Says Report.

The population of Gettysburg at the opening of 1929, nine years after the last decennial census, is 5,919, compared with 4,439 in 1920, an increase of 33.3 per cent, according to a recent survey.

The population of the town and its suburbs is estimated at 8,000. An interesting feature of the survey is the occupational figures. Among the 4,925 persons ten years of age or over, it is estimated there are 2,480 workers for gain, of whom 1,893 are males and 587 females.

Population in Detail

| Characteristics of the population are: | 1920  | 1929  |
|----------------------------------------|-------|-------|
| Population                             | 4,439 | 5,919 |
| Males                                  | 2,018 | 2,791 |
| Females                                | 2,421 | 3,128 |
| Persons over 21                        | 2,838 | 3,811 |
| Males                                  | 1,271 | 1,755 |
| Females                                | 1,567 | 2,056 |
| Persons over 10                        | 3,694 | 4,925 |
| Males                                  | 1,650 | 2,309 |
| Females                                | 2,044 | 2,615 |
| Occupied for gain                      | 1,890 | 2,480 |
| Males                                  | 1,420 | 1,893 |
| Females                                | 440   | 587   |
| Families                               | 1,198 | 1,597 |

The survey is supported by figures from local sources giving gains since the 1920 census in factors essential to population growth: Excess of births over deaths since the 1920 census numbering 290.

Increase of 25.0 per cent since 1920 in the number of qualified voters.

Increase of 30.0 per cent since 1920 in the number of school-age youth.

Increase of 25.0 per cent since 1920 in domestic water consumers.

No annexation of territory by the town during the year 1928.

The population of the Gettysburg trading area is 25,000.

REED, MENGES BACK CRUISER NAME FOR TOWN

United States Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Congressman Franklin Menges, of the York-Adams district, are exerting their influence to have one of the new cruisers now being constructed for the U. S. Navy named "Gettysburg," according to information received by Arthur Buehler, recording secretary of the fire company.

The fire company recently went on record as endorsing the move to have one of the cruisers named "Gettysburg" and addressed communications to Mr. Reed and Mr. Menges, informing the officials of their action.

Senator Reed and Congressman Menges informed Mr. Buehler that they were exerting their efforts to have a cruiser named after this town.

Mr. Menges said in his communication that other communities had filed more than 300 letters of appeal seeking to have their town honored in the same respect.

Firemen To Hear Treasurer Lewis

State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis and James Chalfant, president of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's association, will be the speakers at a quarterly meeting of the Adams County Firemen's association to be held this evening in the P. O. S. of A. hall, East Berlin.

James B. Aumen, Gettysburg, president of the association, will preside.

Business of importance to firemen will be transacted, and a full turnout of members is urged by the officers.

COMMITTEE IS PUSHING PLANS FOR CONVENTION

Expect Large Attendance At Gathering Of G. A. R. And Allied Bodies.

With the rush of holiday engagements over, preparations will be pushed with increased energy for the annual encampment of the G. A. R. and allied organizations, to be held here the third week of June.

This will, in all probability, be the largest gathering for Gettysburg covering so many days since the fiftieth anniversary of the battle. Based upon assurances given to the committee, the number attending the convention is expected to be between 3,000 and 4,000, while some officers of the organizations from other points in the state place their estimates considerably higher.

In all there will be six organizations holding their conventions at the same time, with from 150 to 500 official delegates in attendance at the several places, and perhaps as large a number of others who will attend as visitors. In addition to all these there will be the field encampment of the S. U. V. Reserves, the military group. This will be the largest encampment of the Reserves in recent years.

Unusual Preparations

Reports have been received of unusual preparations for the week at Gettysburg. A new regiment is being formed, and is expected here in large numbers, which may bring the total of the reserves as high as 1,000 members on the field. Many of these reserves will be accompanied by their wives, or members of their families, who will be quartered in hotels or lodging houses in the town.

Allentown is arranging to bring every veteran who can travel, with nurses and a doctor in attendance. For these the entire Battlefield Hotel has been engaged, and other rooms will be required.

The organizations to be here besides the Reserves are the Grand Army of the Republic, the Woman's Relief Corps, the Ladies of the (Continued from Page Two.)

NOT GUILTY IS YORKERS' PLEA

York Murder Defendants Charged With Murder And Manslaughter This Morning.

York, Jan. 7 (AP)—True bills against all three of the principals in York county's witchcraft case were returned by the grand jury this morning.

Only two witnesses were heard. They were Coroner L. O. Zech and Dr. R. L. Ellis, coroner's physician.

Two counts were included in each indictment, murder and manslaughter.

Immediately after the indictment the three defendants, John H. Blymyer, Wilbert G. Hess and John Curry, were arraigned to hear the bills read to them. The indictments charged them with killing Nelson D. Rehmyer, 60-year-old farmer, with "malice aforethought."

Blymyer then pleaded not guilty to the charges and the other two defendants entered the same plea.

They are charged with killing Rehmyer on the night of November 27. They went to Rehmyer's home in a sparsely settled section of the county with the ostensible purpose of procuring a lock of his hair to break a supposed spell he had cast over Hess' family.

Robbery Motive

They beat and choked him to death, it is charged, when he resisted their efforts to get the hair. District Attorney Herrmann believes, however, that the motive was robbery and he intends to stress that rather than the witchcraft angle.

A petition of Blymyer's counsel, Henry D. Cohen, for a separate trial for his client was granted by Judge Miles.

The proceedings moved rapidly and at 11 o'clock the task of selecting a jury was begun.

York county does not call women for jury duty and the only women who appeared in the court room were witnesses.

William E. Sprengle, of York, was the first juror selected with no challenge from either side.

During the examination of prospective jurors there was no reference to witchcraft or pow-wow.

Pardoned!

Pardoned by former Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts, Mrs. Rose Spogard of Lynn has been released from a women's reformatory. She was sentenced in 1913 to life for killing her husband in a family quarrel.

KROM IS BLAMED IN FATAL MISHAP

Jury Charges Marylander With Reckless Driving In Death Of Mrs. Kemper.

The death of Mrs. Sara E. Kemper, 58, wife of Joseph Kemper, Liberty township, who died of injuries suffered in an automobile accident Christmas morning while returning from a church service at Emmitsburg, was caused by the reckless driving of Frederick Krom, of Lay's Station, Maryland, according to the verdict of a jury, empaneled by Dr. E. A. Miller, Adams county coroner, Saturday afternoon.

Although the accident occurred Maryland, just a few hundred yards from the Mason-Dixon line on the Emmitsburg-Waynesboro road, she died in Adams county, which gave Coroner Miller jurisdiction for the inquest. Proceedings against Krom must be instituted by Maryland authorities, it is said, since the accident occurred in that state.

Skull Is Fractured

Mrs. Kemper died at the Warner hospital here of a fractured skull, suffered in an automobile accident when she, her husband and two of their sons were returning from Christmas eve mass at the Emmitsburg Catholic church. At first, it was believed that her injuries were not serious, but she became seriously ill, and was rushed to the local hospital in a dying condition.

According to testimony at the inquest, which was held at the scene of the accident, Krom, accompanied by Carol Byard, Ethel Kreitz and Eva Kreitz, all of Emmitsburg, turned his machine into the car, driven by Kemper, causing the latter's machine to upset.

On the coroner's jury were J. Walter Kugler, William Topper, William H. Houck, Herbert Gingell, W. O. Shank and Donald Smith.

CLUB MEMBERS DONATE $10,500 IN MERCHANDISE

The Red Arrow club of Gettysburg, composed of fourteen merchants from Gettysburg, one from Arendtsville and one from Cashtown, will donate approximately $10,500 in merchandise to the people of the community during the next twelve months, according to W. G. Weaver, secretary.

The merchandise will be sold to persons holding Red Arrow money. This money is given free with each cash purchase at the various Red Arrow stores and the merchandise will be sold to the public through an auction known as the Red Arrow auction.

A four column display advertisement appearing in today's issue of The Times explains some of the features of the club. Each Monday the club will announce through display advertisements added features and plans.

The club numbers sixteen merchants. New members include Stout's meat market, Gettysburg; Bream's store, Cashtown, and Klepper's store, Arendtsville.

FOG BLANKET HALTS TRAFFIC SATURDAY NIGHT

Buses And Motor Cars Are Delayed For Hours On Icy Mountain Top.

Six buses, some of which are used in the trans-continental service through Gettysburg and at least one passenger car, were delayed for from one to three hours, Saturday night, on the Lincoln Highway about 70 miles west of here, according to Fred Williams, mechanic for the C. W. Epley garage.

The delay was caused because of a heavy fog that engulfed the mountain top and the dangerous condition of the highway due to rain which froze as it fell which made motoring most dangerous in the eyes of the state highway motor patrol.

The bus drivers and all motorists were cautioned by patrolmen, who were stationed at dangerous curves and hills, to use chains and not to proceed until their machines were properly equipped to afford the best possible protection to their passengers.

Unofficial Reports

An unofficial report was current in Gettysburg that some of the bus drivers were refused permission to proceed on their way by the patrolmen, and that they were informed by the officers that if they did, the drivers would be arrested for reckless driving.

Captain Dorr, of the state motor patrol, informed The Times this morning from Harrisburg that no such orders had been issued and that patrolmen were not instructed to halt traffic for any length of time. Captain Dorr said that the patrolmen are always stationed at dangerous curves, hills and mountains during stormy weather to warn motorists of the condition of the highway and to lend assistance for the safety of the motoring public. The motor patrol officer said he was not aware that any of the patrolmen had acted according to the report received here.

The Times was further informed by Captain Dorr that in many sections of the state the maintenance divisions of the highway department halted traffic just long enough for the various crews to spread cinders on the icy pavements to prevent motor cars from skidding. All these measures, Captain Dorr said, are taken for the protection of the motoring public and not to exercise any undue authority over motorists.

Use Safety Measures

"If any of our patrolmen prevented by command any buses or motor cars from proceeding on their way, they did so without instructions, orders or authority and we shall investigate the matter," the captain told The Times. "Our men are instructed to caution and warn motorists relative to the condition of the roadway and any driver may proceed on his way or await until the conditions assure more safety."

Mr. Williams told The Times that he was called to Bedford by one of the drivers of the buses, serviced at the C. W. Epley garage, to place chains on the bus, when the icy condition of the highway made driving unsafe without chains. Mr. Williams said that he was delayed on the mountain top from 11 o'clock in the evening until 2 o'clock in the morning. He said a heavy fog that blanketed the mountain made driving almost impossible and motor patrolmen warned all motorists of this condition as they neared the mountains.

NO TREASURER NAMED AS YET

Appointment of a successor to George W. Reichle as treasurer of Adams county was not forthcoming at Harrisburg today, and when the vacancy will be filled remained a matter of conjecture. The appointment is up to Gov. John S. Fisher, and several names have been given him for consideration, according to reports.

Show Pictures Of Palestine Tonight

Dr. Herbert C. Alleman, of the seminary faculty, will show pictures of Palestine in the seminary chapel at 6:30 o'clock this evening. While the pictures are being shown especially for the seminary students, Doctor Alleman is urging members of the Adams County Leadership Training school to attend the showing.

Sudden Death Of Aged Railroader Mystifies Prosecutor And Police

Preston Wilson, 62, Found Dead In "Blue Goose" Lunch Room Saturday Afternoon; Police Question Four Companions; Physicians Say He Died Of Natural Causes.

Preston Wilson, 62-year-old Reading railroad employee, died at "The Blue Goose" lunch room, opposite the Western Maryland station, under unusual circumstances, Saturday afternoon. District Attorney John P. Butt ordered an investigation and two physicians, who made an autopsy of Wilson's body at the Bender funeral home, Carlisle street, Sunday afternoon, said he died of natural causes.

"Both Wilson's heart and kidneys showed lesions, either of which would have been sufficient to have caused his death," Prosecutor Butt said the autopsy showed.

Although it has been definitely established that death was due to natural causes and not to poison liquor, as was first suspected, Dr. E. A. Miller is proceeding with plans for an inquest to determine the manner of death and the circumstances leading up to it.

WARREN ADMITS THEFT OF GAS

Elmer Warren Is Sentenced To Serve From Three To Six Months And Restore Value.

Elmer Warren, York street, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of stealing gasoline from a pump at the J. C. Craig garage, York street, when taken before Judge D. P. McPherson this morning, and was sentenced to serve from three to six months in the Adams county jail.

Warren, who had a pass key to the pump, is alleged to have taken $25 worth of gasoline over a period of several months. He also was ordered to restore the value of the gasoline taken and pay a fine of $1.

Attorney George M. Walter was today named master in the divorce action brought by Jennie B. Leschey against William N. Leschey.

Most of the forenoon session was taken up with current business. Several other defendants who had entered pleas of guilty to various charges were before the court, but action on their cases was postponed until later.

Question Mark Breaks Record

Los Angeles, Jan. 7 (AP).—Through a blue sky flaked with clouds the Question Mark sped at 9:26 o'clock this morning passing its 146th hour aloft. The three motors propelling the huge Army endurance craft to new records hummed an even song as the seventh day of the flight was two hours old.

Man and machine were pitted against time and gravity today when the Question Mark began its seventh day of flight. There were no more records left to break and it flew to the watchword "Sail on and on."

Apparently in perfect condition the plane ended its sixth day in the air at 7:26 a. m. Observers reported it had consumed a minimum of gasoline during the night indicating that the motors were performing at their best. This was said to mean that the time when the great mechanical bird gives way under strain is remote.

Reports on the condition of the five men were that they are as fit as the plane except that they have been deafened by the constant roar of the motors. They previously had declared that the longer they remained up the better they liked it.

The big monoplane continued to hover close to its home port in order to keep the records it has made. The plane will land at the scene of the take-off in order to have records officially accepted.

Start Audit Of County Accounts

The Adams county auditors today began the annual audit of the county accounts. S. C. Lott, one of the auditors, was unable to be present because of the death of his sister, but George W. Topper, president of the board, and H. H. Thomas, the third member, started the work so that it can be pushed as soon as Mr. Lott is ready.

Is Found Dead

Wilson, who worked at the Reading passenger station, was found dead at "The Blue Goose" Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, by Dr. M. S. Weaver, who was called to the place to render medical attention. Doctor Weaver made no effort to certify the cause of death, preferring to allow the county medical authorities to determine whether the man died of natural causes.

District Attorney Butt, Detective Charles H. Wilson, Coroner Miller and the state police were later notified of the man's death, and the prosecutor instructed the state police to conduct a thorough investigation after he and Detective Wilson had made a cursory examination among the frequenters at "The Blue Goose" Saturday evening.

State police went to the lunch room, Sunday morning, and took into custody four companions of Wilson, who had been to Emmitsburg, Saturday morning, returning home about noon.

Question Companions

From this quartet, comprising John Miller, Harry Swain, Herman Kappes, and Elmer Toddas, and from several others who frequent the lunch room, the officers learned that Wilson had accompanied the four men to Emmitsburg, the trip being made in Miller's automobile and with Miller driving.

The companions of the dead man told the authorities that Wilson did not leave the car in Emmitsburg, and that he was taken ill while they were returning home. Several of the occupants of the machine had been drinking, state police said they learned, and none of them knew exactly when Wilson became ill.

Wilson, police say they learned, was allowed to remain in the machine for some time after the five men returned from Emmitsburg, and that subsequently, he was put to bed in an upper room at "The Blue Goose." When Wilson was next seen by persons at the eating house, he apparently was dead, police said, and it was then that Doctor Weaver was summoned.

Reported "Mad" Missing

Although Wilson is said to have returned to Gettysburg from New York on New Year's Day with a large sum of money, change, totaling less than a dollar, was found on his person, when he was examined, it was stated. State police said they have made no effort to check up on money Wilson might have had on him when he died.

Wilson was a native of West Virginia, but came to Gettysburg from New York. In a pocketbook he carried, the name of William Cornell, Jr., New York, was given as the person to be notified in case of accident or death. Cornell was communicated with, and a Newark, New Jersey, undertaker ordered the body shipped there.

Before the body was shipped to Newark today, the coroner's jury, comprising I. N. Lightner, A. S. Mills, F. B. Daardorf, James Raver, J. B. Wineman and G. R. Thompson

Terrible Swedes Who Play Here Thursday

Olson's Swedes Meet Firemen In Hotel Annex On Thursday

Widely Traveled Dribblers Come Here With Remarkable Record Of 441 Victories Out Of 515 Games Played; Back-hand Passing To Feature Thriller.

There is a real treat in store for the followers of the popular indoor sport, basketball, when the nationally known "Olson's Terrible Swedes" meet Gettysburg's crack firemen quintet in the Hotel Gettysburg annex, Thursday.

Olson's Swedes, the most widely traveled basketball team in the world, is considered the fastest aggregation of dribblers ever to tour the country meeting all comers and playing on an average of five nights a week. Throughout the season, this tribe of speed artists, ball toters, dribblers, basket shooters, plays every night in the week, except Sunday, and travels hundreds of miles to meet their opponents.

A marvelous feature of the "Swedes" is that the aggregation comprises but six men, including the manager and coach, C. M. Olson, who also participates in most of the games. Manager Olson, the cleverest basketball handler in the country, will be in the line-up when the referee's whistle sends them into action against the fire-eaters of A-burg.

Tour 34 States

During the last two years the Swedes traveled through 34 states, played more than 200 games and lost but 12 contests.

Their record for the past eight years is:

Games played ..... 515
Games won ..... 441
Games lost ..... 74

This sensational record establishes the "Swedes" as the greatest independent traveling team in the world. Their record exceeds that of the crack Oswego Wildcats, Brooklyn Dodgers and Atlanta Bears, the three smartest tribes in professional basketball.

From every source to which inquiries have been addressed comes the word that the Swedes have headquarters at the Eagle hotel, where Department Secretary William R. McGirr has made reservations for the officers. Official delegates and visitors will occupy the remaining rooms at the hotel, and a large number of them will be quartered in the lodging-houses.

If it is found that these will be overcrowded, private homes will be opened to the visitors.

The committee is anxious to be assured of the necessary funds for the entertainment of the visitors for programs, badges, convention halls, music, decorations, entertainment and similar expenses, which will require $3,000.

The committee has estimated that $2,000 should be subscribed by hotels, business places, professional men and interested individuals; the sum of $700 is asked from the lodging houses, and $300 from the battlefield guides.

Plan Memorials

The Woman's Relief Corps expects to place a bronze tablet of Lincoln's Gettysburg address at some place to be selected soon, probably in the high school building. The Daughters of Veterans have offered to spend as much as $500 on a suitable memorial.

S. U. V. officials desire to have a patriotic contest among pupils of the public schools about the age of 15 years, and present a beautiful silk flag to the winner. Other gifts and memorials will be offered.

About one-third of the sum required has been subscribed. At the close of the encampment the committee will render a full public account of all receipts and expenditures.

The recommendation that the Swedes are clean-cut, gentlemanly players, who play for the love of the game and have never created the slightest disturbance in all their travels. Their reputation is unmarred and they have always played return engagements, which is, in itself, a splendid recommendation.

Famous College Stars

Local fans who expect to see the Swedes in action, and it is a safe assertion that the Hotel Gettysburg annex will be packed to capacity when the Swedes come here Thursday night, will see the following stars in action:

John Hoover, all-Kansas collegiate star; Elden Perfect, all-Oklahoma collegiate guard; Earl Cartwright, all-Oklahoma collegiate forward; Leo Duke, all-Kansas collegiate forward; Clifton Byers, all-Missouri collegiate guard, and C. M. Olson, the manager and coach, and the greatest dribbler and ballhandler ever to come out of the Middle West.

Some of the teams the Swedes have defeated include: The crack Portis Dynamoes, of Kansas; Tulsa Eagles, Oklahoma; Shidler Red Birds, of Oklahoma; St. George Dixie college, of Utah; Las Vegas Terros, of New Mexico; Jerome Legionaires, of Arizona; New York City Redlegs; Auburn Cubs, of California; Neenah Boosters, of Wisconsin, and countless others.

Expense Is Heavy

The firemen have incurred considerable expense to bring the Swedes to Gettysburg and it is expected that a large crowd will turn out to see the game, certain to be the fastest and best game to be played this season.

A feature of the contest will be C. M. Olson's famous back-hand passing. Local stars declare this to be a difficult feat, especially when it is continued throughout a game and Olson is a master of the art.

The Swedes have played before more than 150,000 spectators during the past season and they expect to surpass this figure before they close their tour.

The game will be called at 8:15 Thursday night in the Hotel Gettysburg annex gymnasium, Carlisle street.

Forest Fires Are Held At Low Mark; Ready For Spring

Harrisburg.—After having established another low record for forest fires during the fall season the Department of Forests and Waters already is preparing to fight the menace in the coming spring.

During the past year many of the most vital necessities of the fire-fighting system were extended. The number of steel fire observation towers is now 115. Forest roads and trails were improved and lengthened to permit quick moving of men and material after a blaze has been reported. Necessary additions also were made to the system of telephone lines as a further aid in securing help in remote sections where it is difficult to assemble quickly a fire-fighting crew.

The total number of fires reported during the past danger period was 196. They were confined to 1405 acres. Of the total number of fires only three were on state-owned forests and the combined area burned was less than twenty-six acres.

TEX RICKARD DIES SUNDAY IN FLORIDA

New York Sports Promoter Dies From Acute Gangrenous Appendicitis, Says Bulletin.

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 7 (AP).—George L. (Tex) Rickard, New York sports promoter, died in a hospital here at 8:37 o'clock Sunday morning of complications which developed after an operation for appendicitis New Year's night.

Mrs. Rickard, Jack Dempsey, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Field, of New York; Dr. E. H. Adkins and two nurses were at the bedside when the maker of champions passed away.

Rickard, accompanied by his wife and child, came to Miami Beach recently as head of the Madison Square Garden Corporation to superintend the opening of a greyhound race track and to arrange for a heavyweight match between Young Stribling and Jack Sharkey.

Stricken New Year's Day

He was stricken Tuesday at his home, but was not removed to a hospital until that night, when physicians diagnosed his illness as acute appendicitis. An operation was performed immediately.

Rickard showed improvement and was pronounced on the road to recovery until Friday night, when he suffered a relapse and peritonitic infection developed. The promoter fought against the inroads of the disease and Saturday told Jack Dempsey, his friend, "Jack, I've got this licked."

Throughout the day his condition was considered grave and his strength, physicians said, was being sapped, but at midnight Saturday night Dr. Adkins announced the promoter's resistance was better and left the hospital.

Wife Kept All-Night Vigil

At 6:30 Sunday morning Rickard suddenly lapsed into unconsciousness, from which he never recovered.

Throughout Saturday night Mrs. Rickard kept vigil beside the bed of her husband, as she had done almost constantly since he was stricken. With her was Mrs. Field, Dempsey and Mr. Field left the hospital at 2 a. m., after remaining there through most of Saturday and Sunday night.

Dr. Adkins, Dr. Spubert, house physician, Dempsey and Field were summoned when Rickard became unconscious, and a few minutes later were at the bedside.

Overwhelmed by Infection

An official bulletin issued by Dr. Adkins at 9:30 a. m. said: "Mr. Rickard's death resulted from an overwhelming infection following acute gangrenous appendicitis."

The Rev. Ralph W. Baker, pastor of the Fairfield Lutheran church, officiating. Interment in Union cemetery, Fairfield.

Doris May Mowery

Diphtheria claimed its first victim of the winter season, Saturday evening at 9:30 o'clock when Doris May Mowery, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Mowery, died at her home on Fourth street. She had been ill only two days. No other member of the family is afflicted with the disease.

The child is survived by her parents, three brothers, Arthur, Paul, Jr., and William, and by two sisters, Helen and Margaret J. Mowery, all at home. Mr. and Mrs. John E. Mowery, Shippensburg, and Mrs. Ida Ackerman, Harrisburg, are surviving grandparents.

Private Funeral Services Were Held At The Mowery Home, Sunday

afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, the Rev. F. L. Stine, pastor of the United Brethren church, officiating. Interment at Shippensburg.

Miss Rachel B. Lott

Miss Rachel Belle Lott, 68, died at the home of her brother, Samuel C. Lott, Highland township, one of the Adams county auditors, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from a complication of diseases. She had been ill a year, but her condition had become critical only within the past two weeks.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Washington Lott, and was born and spent her life in Highland township, dying in the same house in which she was born.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Fannie McCoy, Chambersburg, and one brother, Samuel C. Lott, with whom she resided.

Funeral services at the home Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, the Rev. D. W. Woods, pastor of the Marsh Creek Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

KEEPS OFFICE OPEN

Dr. George H. Seaks, ear, nose and throat specialist, who established offices in Harrisburg, has announced that he will be in his office here every Wednesday and Saturday evenings from 6 until 8 p. m., until Doctor Mountain assumes the practice here within a few months.

TWO HI PILOTS NEXT SEASON

Hartman And Wermick To Captain Maroon And White Warriors; Award Letters.

Following the lead of many large colleges, Gettysburg high school will have two football captains for the season of 1929. Lee Hartman and Norman Wermick will be the pilots. They were elected on Saturday.

Hartman will play his third year of varsity football next season. "Reds" clinched a regular position in his sophomore year and has been a bulwark to the line ever since. Lee regularly plays guard but saw some action at tackle this season when Joe Irvin was forced out of the game through injuries.

"Norm" Wermick played his first year of varsity football the past season. Wermick is also a linebacker. Coach Martin used him at guard, tackle and center at various times and he played them with equal ability. Hartman and Wermick are ideal leaders.

Coach Martin has awarded the coveted "G" to seventeen men, including the manager. Those who received the award were Captain Clarence Wilson, Merle Weikert, Joe Sadler, Charles Appller, Dennis Fissel, George Bushman, David Stoner, Harold Rummel, Richard Thomas, William Swisher, Howard Warren, Joe Irvin, Norman Wermick, Earl Harbaugh, Lee Hartman, Robert Lott, David Reaser and Manager Gilbert Myers.

Losing but six of these stalwarts, Gettysburg looks as a strong team next year. As yet the schedule has not been completed for the coming season but some teams to be played are Mechanicsburg, Hanover, New Cumberland, Carlisle, Shippensburg and Chambersburg.

Added Feature At Majestic Theatre

The Majestic theatre management announces an added attraction tonight, in addition to its regular cinema program. The stage feature is the Clayton-DeBarrie show to be offered tonight and Tuesday evening with a matinee Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock for the children.

The Clayton-DeBarrie attraction offers the well known demonstration of practical psychology, Henri Clayton, and Mlle. DeBarrie's Australian bird circus, former attractions on the Keith vaudeville circuit; Karavan, the illusionist, and Juggling Thorson, the funny Swede, and presentation of the Levitation of Princess Karnae.

CAMERA REVIEW OF 1928 WORLD NEWS EVENTS

(By Pacific &amp; Atlantic)

This could be labeled the outstanding news picture of 1928. It was taken by a steward aboard the Vestris as the ill-fated liner was actually sinking off Virginia Capes. Members of the crew, fear apparent on their faces, are shown taking to boats.

Nineteen twenty-eight found Mount Etna again in eruption. This highly dramatic photo shows a house being engulfed by the relentless lava as cameramen daringly take pictures of the catastrophe.

The signing of the Kellogg peace pact was most significant gesture toward universal world peace during 1928. Here Secretary Kellogg is shown affixing his signature to the pact in clock room of Palais D'Orsay, Paris.

Commander James Fitzmaurice is here shown being welcomed by Mayor C. J. Romeril of Seven Islands, Canada, as intrepid transatlantic flier stepped from plane which brought him from Greenly island where he landed with Koehl and Von Huenefeld.

Outstanding feat illustrating feasibility of trans-Atlantic flying was epochal flight of the Graf Zeppelin. This photo shows the mighty air liner as it circled over the Statue of Liberty after flight from Germany.

Shown at Oslo, Norway, after their thrilling flight over polar regions are Capt. Wilkins, Capt. Roald Amundsen (later lost in attempt to rescue crew of ill-fated Italia) and Lieut. Eielson.

The past year was filled with notable achievements in the world of aviation, not the least interesting among them being the trans-Atlantic flight of Wilmer Stultz, Amelia Earhart and Lew Gordon. This is an interesting picture of Miss Earhart, first woman to fly across the Atlantic, as she appeared in her aviation costume.

Hurricane which swept over Porto Rico and Florida left in its wake thousands of dead. This photo shows refugees wandering about the debris-filled streets of San Juan.

TEN YEARS AGO

Col. Roosevelt Dies Suddenly.—
(Jan. 6th.) Oyster Bay, New York.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt died at his home at Sagamore Hill at 4:15 this morning, the result of a clot of blood on the lungs.
Colonel Roosevelt died in his sleep. The end came when no one was with him but his valet.
Sails for Europe.—Dr. John Sachs, of Wilmington, Delaware, a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Sachs, of Hanover street, left on the "Mauretania" on Saturday for England. He will visit England, France and Switzerland.
Dr. Sachs has been with the du Pont interests for some time and his trip abroad is in connection with some of their projects.
Warren — Rubenstein. — Miss
Rosie M. Rubenstein and Norman Warren were married December 28 at the Lutheran parsonage in Arendtsville by Rev. D. T. Koser.
Their wedding trip was taken by automobile to Harrisburg and Philadelphia. They will reside on Stratton street.
Wineman.—Brown.—At half past two o'clock Thursday afternoon
John M. Wineman and Miss Minnie B. Brown, both of near Seven Stars, were married at the residence of Rev. J. H. Brindle, of Gettysburg.
They will reside along the Lincoln highway west of Gettysburg.
Veterans Sons Plan for Work.—
The following officers of Gettysburg Camp No. 112 Sons of Veterans have been installed by Post Commander Dr. Henry Stewart,

The work and standing and actual service of the order in the past few years is a record well worth praise and is bound to encourage any eligible who is connected in any way with the past war. The order has contributed fourteen ambulances to the Medical Department of the United States army in France, and every member of the order is now contributing one dollar to the Sons of Veterans war fund to be applied for the comforts and needs of our boys "over there."
Victory Sings Still Popular.—A quartet composed of Mrs. R. E.
Zinn, Mrs. H. S. Trostle, Albert Z.
Rogers and D. C. Stallsmith sang two selections, "The Service Flag" and "Homeward Bound," at the weekly "Victory Song held in the Methodist church, which was entirely filled on Sunday evening.

"The Marsellaise" was sung by the French class at high school under the direction of Miss Elsie Garlach. A number of other selections were sung by the audience. Charles E. Stahle, Esq., made the ten minute address.

Wilson Again in Paris.—(By Cable.) Paris, Jan. 7.—President Wilson returned this morning from his Italian trip. He is expected to plunge immediately into the preliminaries preceding the formal deliberations of the associated powers.

"Well, I declare!" exclaimed Uncle Lucky, the old gentleman bunny, gazing up at the sign post on which was printed in big yellow letters, "Fairy Bunny Land."
"I didn't suppose we had traveled so far," and turning with a smile to his little rabbit nephew, he added, "shall we visit Fairy Bunny Land?"

Of course the little bunny answered yes, so off they went.
But, goodness me! It grew warmer and warmer, and pretty soon there was no snow at all upon the ground, although it was January in Rabbitland. Perhaps it wasn't January in Fairy Bunny Land.
Maybe we'll find out a little later.
Well, anyway, all of a sudden the good Sledmobile stopped short, just like that, quick as the wind that blows off your hat, beside a stream of water. "I'm thirsty. Let's hop out for a drink," cried Uncle Lucky.
Goodness me, I'm hot," and he took off his old wedding stovepipe hat and mopped his brow with a blue silk polka-dot handkerchief.

"We'll have a hard time to turn about," sighed the little bunny, looking down at the green grass and buttercups. "Wish we had the wheels along. We could take off the red sleds and put back the wheels."

"Drink not from this crystal pool,
Though the water's clear and cool.
If but a single drop you drink,
You'll turn a frog in just a wink," all of a sudden warned an old frog from a lily pad.

Dear, dear, Oh, dear for the third time! Alas and alack! Uncle Lucky had already taken a swallow and in less time than I can take to tell it he turned into a frog. Yes, sir! He changed into a frog as large as a rabbit. And, stranger still, his clothes didn't change their style one least little bit. His pink waistcoat was still pink, and the diamond horseshoe pin still glittered in his purple cravat and his stovepipe hat remained on his head.

poetically went on the old frog.
"I will ask the Fairy Queen to help me," cried the little bunny, and away into the forest he hopped, leaving the Sledmobile by the brookside and dear, unhappy Uncle Lucky to wipe the salty tears from his eyes with a watercress leaf.
And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.
Dear, dear! Why do disagreeable things happen to such a kind old bunnyman as dear Uncle Lucky, I should like to know?

Just where it blooms I cannot tell,
But this I know,—its magic spell
Your poor, dear Uncle Lucky can Change back into a bunny man."

Just Folks

THE LESSER JOYS

Laughter and love and mirth
And of friendships tried and true,

A brave-hearted one or two;
These are the joys of earth,
The best that this life can give However we choose to live.

A garden of summer flowers,
Books and an easy chair,
Small pleasures which we can share,

Though little or great our powers
Are the joys of our toilsome years
When the end of the way appears.

Not fortune or fame or place
Continue their charm for long;
Not ever the arm stays strong,
The joy of the hunt and chase,
With its sharp, insistent cry,
Grows wearisome by and by.

And the bravest of hearts requires Glad hours of the lesser kind,
The calm and the peace of mind
That are found at his own hearth fires.

In friendships and flowers and mirth
He gathers the joys of earth.

HEALTH TALK

"The other day the newspapers carried the story of a young college graduate who left home last summer the victim of amnesia and today still forgets his past, failing to recognize his parents and close associates, which is sad indeed.
On the other hand, there are many types of forgetfulness not dignified by a medical term or classification that are just as unfortunate and even worse," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health, today.

"The youthful amnesia victim in all probability will finally regain his former mental health. Not so, however, many others whose conditions grow out of forgetfulness.
The pathetic part of it lies in the fact that had the individual merely disciplined himself through intelligent interest in his own welfare, many of the crippling and fatal results would not have occurred."
"It is quite difficult to understand how people can be so forgetful as to drive themselves litterally into invalidism or death.
Nevertheless, this state of mind is so general as to make repeated warnings quite necessary.

"Here are some of the things that many people constantly and daily forget with dire consequences:

1. Forgetting to eat just enough rather than too much food.
2. Forgetting to exercise in the open air.
3. Forgetting that eight hours' sleep in a well ventilated room each night is the average individual requirement.
4. Forgetting that worry de-

The stranger that has been lurking around the Rye Straw store for a day or two was in the coils of the law today, following the robbery of the Rye Straw store some time last night. The stranger when arrested had tried to disguise himself, by changing hats and coats and putting on a false mustache, and it was admitted by the Deputy Constable that he did look about twice as big as the stranger, but when searched this was accounted for by the finding of a sack of flour and a ham of meat under his overcoat.

The Tickville Town Marshal has turned over a new leaf and announces he was going to arrest any law violator, no matter if the fellow did vote for him at the last election.

vitalizes and sometimes kills.

5. Forgetting that the annual physical examination is the detector of serious unsuspected conditions which in the early stages can be cured.

6. Forgetting that health is the one supreme blessing and that when it is lost all is lost.

"To be sure, amnesia is a serious and heart-rending disease. But deliberate forgetfulness of one's physical welfare is infinitely more serious. How forgetful are you?"

The merchants of Gettysburg and one from Cashtown and Arendtsville, listed below, have formed a Red Arrow Club and will donate about $10,500 worth of their merchandise to the people in this community during the next twelve months. This merchandise will be given to persons having Red Arrow Money. Red Arrow Money is given absolutely free with every cash purchase at the Red Arrow Places. The merchandise will be sold to the public through a unique Auction known as a Red Arrow Auction.

The bidding in a Red Arrow Auction will be done on Bidding Tickets. When a bid is made on a Bidding Ticket, the Bidding Ticket is put in an Auction Block. The person who makes the highest bid as shown by the Bidding Tickets, gets the Article by paying the bid in Red Arrow Money.

RULES FOR THE RED ARROW AUCTION

1. All Articles will be sold for Red Arrow Money to the Highest Bidders.
2. Only one Article will be sold to a person at any one of the Red Arrow Auctions of the combined Red Arrow Places.
3. Bidders must be at the Red Arrow Auctions, or represented, to pay for Articles as bids are publicly announced.
4. If Highest Bidder does not pay, the Article will be sold to Second Highest Bidder who must be present, or represented, to pay the bid.
5. If neither First or Second Highest Bid is paid, Article will be set aside to be sold in Open Auction for Red Arrow Money at the close of the Red Arrow Auction.
6. Anyone may bid as often as desired on the same Article or on different Articles at different Red Arrow Places but only one bid made by each person at all of the Red Arrow Places will be used by the Committee at any one of the combined Red Arrow Auctions. Bidding by Red Arrow merchants or their clerks is barred.
7. The last bid of each person will be used by the Committee.
8. If two or more bids are made by a person and Committee cannot tell which is last, the bid on Article of least value will be used.
9. In case of a tie bid, those tying will be allowed to bid again.
10. All persons present (except Red Arrow Merchants or their clerks) may bid in Open Auction on the articles furnished by each Red Arrow Place for Open Auction or on any of the Articles not paid for by bidders.
Anyone may bid in as many of these articles in Open Auction as possible.
11. Only successful bidders pay in the Red Arrow Auction and Open Auction. All others should keep their Red Arrow Money to be used at later Auctions.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

THE DAY'S LAST HOUR

SOME people—most people, perhaps—find it difficult to fall asleep quickly and happily when retiring.
I have touched the Noon of life, where this applies most generally, and yet I find it easy to fall asleep quickly, and to sleep soundly. I attribute this to a habit, long ago formed, of reading something stimulating and interesting during the last hour before I touch the bed sheets.
In my library is the big chair with "the little blue typewriter" in front of it. Near is a book shelf with perhaps 50 books in it, and beside my work chair are two stands piled with favorite books—perhaps a dozen or so on each stand. It is from these arm's-reach affairs that I select my "sleeping potion."
Tonight I see a group of books about books and their authors.
Beveridge's "Lincoln," several volumes of short stories, "The Kasidah," two books about Herman Melville, several volumes of Richard King's essays, "My Brother Johnathan," by Francis Brett
Young, books of poems by Robert Frost, A. E. Coppard and W. H.
Davies, books on Jesus by Cass and Ludwig, "The Nature of the World and Man," a wonderful book prepared by about a dozen University of Chicago Professors, a book about Franklin, and one about Horace Greeley, "The Private Life of the Romans," by Dr.
McDaniel, "Captains in Conflict," by Robert Updegraff, a revised edition of the Bible, and one of my little Shakespeare books—to name only a few.
These books will remain for a few weeks and then be replaced by new ones. I can always run to the bookshelf to get any former favorite. A newly bought book always gets the preference —if the book and mood smile at each other.
No matter at what hour I arrive home—if I am away for the evening—I have this last talk with my friends through their printed thoughts. Then, when the sands from the ceiling, or the heavens—or from somewhere—begin to fall and weigh upon the lids of my eyes, I immediately seek my bed—for I have already garbed myself in my pajamas and reading robe.
I shall keep up this habit—which I recommend to others—so long as I live, and I believe I shall live the longer for it!

stability of Philippine institutions and development of insular economic interests.

Stimson's Position

That is rather surprising from an independence champion; but the thing becomes even more marked as the editorial proceeds. It points out that under "the spirit created in the American people since the great war" the old American frontiers "have become too narrow."

"Its (America's) altruistic and beneficent influence extends today all over the world; its capital and its technical advisers are much in demand even in China; and if we Filipinos were not too nearsighted to see the importance of these events for the future we should realize that our destiny could never be better guaranteed than under the protection of the United States by the strong bond of prestige, power and influence of the great republic," the paper goes on. "Our national political parties would revise their platforms, eliminating from them everything archaic in order to adapt them to reality, and would endeavor to find a solution responding to that reality and to circumstances and not to things imaginary, and satisfying our desire for autonomy which is reasonable."

Just what change in insular views this indicates is not clear. It is a rather strikingly frank declaration, however, and in the opinion of the writer calculated to increase the prestige of Governor General Stimson. It raises the question as to what further recognition of services Stimson may look for, say when President Hoover selects his cabinet.

Washington Highlights

By Kirke L. Simpson

Washington.—When President Hoover takes office, he is going to face a big job in living up to the specifications of greatness mapped out for him in advance by newspapers outside the United States.

His election has brought out editorial comment in such places as the Philippines that has caught the attention of Governor General Stimson and of Washington officials because, in one case at least, champions of Philippine independence appear to have switched their position as a result of Hoover's victory.

New Note in Philippines

Probably that does not come altogether as a surprise in Washington. The bystander has known that many officials here were inclined to take the independence outcry in the islands with a liberal grain of salt. They looked upon it as a manifestation of home politics. The late Secretary Weeks had that view; it is shared by Dwight Davis as secretary of war, and by such an expert as General McIntyre, long head of the insular bureau.

It remained for Hoover's election, however, to see something definite written into editorial comment of La Vanguardia, Manila, a leading Spanish independent newspaper of the islands and for years a stout champion of insular independence.

The editorial in question paid glowing tribute to Hoover as a genius of organization. It notes that "we Filipinos" looked with sympathy "in a platonic way" on Governor Smith's candidacy because the Democratic platform "contained a sentimental reference to our dreams of the past," but adds that the election result "in the circumstances" seems the "best guarantee" of

Illegitimate Birth Rate 2.3 In State; Is Slight Increase

Harrisburg.—During 1927, of the 210,360 live births reported in Pennsylvania, 4915 were illegitimate, a check completed recently revealed. This is a rate of 2.3 per cent, and represents a slightly higher number of such births than has occurred in former years.

In Philadelphia the percentage was 2.8 and in Pittsburgh 3.6. The rural areas average percentage was but 2.1.

While the statistics of illegitimacy for the past year by color and nativity of mothers are not yet available, the percentage of births out of wedlock during 1926 indicated that they occurred among foreign born whites on a rate of .6 per cent; colored, 9.5 per cent, and native born whites, 2.3 per cent.

Three of Alabama's nicknames are "Cotton," "Lizard" and "Yal-lahammers."

FINE FOR CHILDREN!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath, and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recognized by their olive color, Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, 30c and 60c sizes.

LOCAL WOMAN TELLS SECRET OF WHITER WASHES

"It's Easy On The Hands," Says Mrs. E. C. Woodward.

"Rinsos washes the clothes clean and white and is certainly a first-class help on washday. It makes the clothes so much whiter than other soaps, yet I have always found it safe to use. Rinsos is very easy on the hands. It's nice for dishes, floors, woodwork, kitchen and linoleums. I gladly recommend Rinsos to my neighbors and friends. It gives such a white, sweet and clean wash, and the suds are thick, lasting and cleansing."

(Signed) Mrs. E. C. Woodward 696 South Washington street, Gettysburg, Pa.

Greater For Tub Washing, Too!

More than 32,000 washing machine demonstrators use Rinsos to show their machines at their best. The makers of 34 leading washers endorse it for safety. Marvelous for tub washing, too. Quickly soaks out dirt and stains. Saves hands—saves clothes. Get the BIG package today. For best results follow the easy directions on package.—adv.

"MY MAN," starring Fannie Brice, is a Warner Bros. pictorialization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Fanny Brice goes in a costume shop and raises her brother, Phil, and her sister, Audrey, making every sacrifice that money may be spared. Audrey, who is a singer, leaves home to live her own life. Lazarus, art director for Waldo, theatrical producer, hears Fanny sing and takes her to Waldo. In the middle of the audition Fanny discovers Audrey's interest in Waldo. Heartbroken, she falls in the tryout. Then Fanny sees a man, Tom, demonstrating muscle builders. Months later she finds him, down and out, raising her ice box. She gives him a home and falls in love with him. Tom breaks an engagement.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

Phil put his arms about his sister's neck, petting her and trying to comfort her as best he knew how. It was some few moments before the girl could stop weeping. She sobbed brokenly, resting her head on her brother's small shoulder.

"Don't cry, Fanny," Phil kissed his sister, trying to dry her tears. "What's the matter? Don't cry any more."

"I—I won't, Phil," Fanny sobbed. "I'm just a plain fool. I ought to be a-shamed of myself."

"No, you oughtn't, Fanny," Phil averred stoutly, although he still

"So you really love me, Tom?"

didn't know just what his sister was talking about. "Where's Tom?" He looked about, for the first time discovering that the man wasn't in the room. Then he began to surmise things. "Hey, sis, did Tom do anything to make you cry?"

"No, no," Fanny answered quickly. "It wasn't Tom's fault. It's all mine."

"Well, if he's done something, you just tell me. I'll fix him," Phil expanded his chest heroically.

"No, Phil," Fanny managed a weak smile through her tears. "It isn't his fault. He doesn't like me as much as I like him."

"I'll bet he does so, Fanny," Phil tried to reassure her. But Fanny only shook her head.

"No, I love him, Phil," Fanny admitted. "I'm crazy about him. And he doesn't care a thing about me. Oh-h-h." The tears began again.

"Now, don't cry, Fanny," But Phil himself, was beginning to cry on of sheer sympathy. It hurt him to see Fanny so unhappy. She'd never cried like this before. He felt that he hated Tom for making his sister cry. "I'll fix it for you, sis, honest, I will," Phil promised.

"It's all right, dear," Fanny tried to quiet herself. "I can't expect you to hold him. He's probably in love with some young, pretty kid. I wouldn't blame him. I ought to be of known better. It's all my fault. It's—It's—"

A sudden noise caused her to turn quickly. There, in the doorway, stood Tom, looking very red and very contrite. Fanny gasped. She wondered how much of her confession he had heard. She blushed furiously.

Tom had, as a matter of fact, heard most of her words. He had been standing there, afraid to interrupt, and yet hating to eavesdrop. He had got down to the street when he had left the house and he had started towards the elevated station. But as he walked along the picture of Fanny's hurt, white face persisted in rising before his eyes. He hadn't meant to hurt her. He hadn't realized that she'd take it that way. He didn't know what it meant to her when he asked her to go out with him. But her expression had given away her feelings.

After all, he liked the girl. She had been more than kind to him, and here he was treating her this way. He was a thick-headed dumb bell, he reflected. He might have known better. He hadn't.

anything by breaking the engagement. It was perfectly true that he had asked her to go out with him, and he had really wanted to go. Fanny he saw almost every evening, and he had scarcely thought about their date after he had made it. But the idea began to penetrate his mind that Fanny had counted on this evening. And he had been rather gruff the way he had hurried off with that casual, "See you later." He ought to go back and apologize.

So Tom had hesitated, then stopped, and then finally turned around and started back to the house. After all, he had been pretty mean. He hadn't told Fanny that he wanted to break the engagement until the last moment. At least he might have let her know earlier. And so he had hurried up the steps and into the apartment, where the sound of sobbing had greeted his ears. Fanny hadn't heard him opening the door—she had been crying too hard to notice anything. And he had stood there, until he felt that he had to interrupt before Fanny said anymore.

"Listen, Fanny, I'm terribly sorry," he went across the room and took the girl's hands in his. "I—I just heard what you were saying. You got me all wrong, sister. I think you're a swell girl."

"There, see what I told ya, sis," Phil put in, happy now that Tom had returned and feeling that everything would be set to rights, so great was his confidence in his hero.

"Oh, Tom," Fanny looked up at the man, her eyes still bright with tears, but smiling. She clung to him, holding his hands tightly. He had come back to her. He really liked her. She had been mistaken—it was all a mistake. If he didn't love her he wouldn't have come back. She sighed, a happy, broken sigh.

Tom, scarcely knowing what to do, was patting her hands, trying to soothe her in his awkward way. He felt sorry for her. She was such a good kid, he told himself. They didn't come any better. And she had done plenty for him. But Fanny's next words almost took his breath away.

"So you—really love me, Tom?" She was looking up at him out of big, pathetic eyes. She pulled him down on the bench beside her, still clinging to his hand. Tom realized that she had misinterpreted his words. He hadn't meant to say that he was in love with her. He only felt that he had caused her unhappiness and he wanted to make it up to her in some way. And he scarcely knew what to do. He knew that she was expecting him to take her in his arms and assure her that he really cared for her. Well, he did care for her, but not in that way. He swallowed hard, trying to make an answer, trying to think of something to say that would not hurt her, and yet would not commit him.

"You do love me—don't you, Tom?" Fanny repeated her question, still gazing at him tenderly. "It was that look in her eyes that put an end to Tom's doubts as to how he should answer. He'd done enough for one evening. He couldn't wound her pride, now, by denying her question. He simply had to pretend, that was all. And so he mumbled an assent. And Fanny, so happy she could scarcely believe her ears, turned up her face to be kissed. Tom put his arm about her waist and dutifully performed that ministration. She closed her eyes in a delirium of bliss."

Finally she looked up at Tom and noted the rather disconcerted, troubled look on his face. She attributed it to the fact that he was feeling sorry for what he had done.

"It's all right, Tom," she squeezed his hand affectionately. "Don't worry anymore about this evening. It's all over, and I know you didn't mean to hurt me."

"No, I didn't mean to hurt ya, Fanny," Tom took his cue, even though slightly startled. "I just didn't think, I guess. I mean, I didn't know you was countin' on it so much."

"Oh, Tom, dear, it meant an awful lot to me—everything means an awful lot. But I know you didn't think about it that way. I guess I had a queer notion. I feel so bad about it, anyhow. But honest, I felt just like that song—you know—the one I sang to you the other night—that one"—she hummed the words.

"Second hand hats—second hand clothes—that's why they call me second hand Rose." Even our piano in the parlor. Father bought for ten cents on the dollar. Even Jule, the plumber, he's the man I adore. Had the nerve to tell me he's been married before."

"You haven't been married before, have you, Tom?" She broke off the words, laughing.

"Nope," Tom shook his head.

For a little while there was silence. Phil had escaped to the dining room where he was watching the outcome of all this excitement from a distance. Then Fanny snuggled closer against Tom, stroking his hand.

375,000 Jars Vicks Now

Produced Every 24 Hours

That the public has not forgotten the lesson of 1918 is indicated by its prompt responses to the warning of health authorities to combat the flu by keeping free from colds.

The demand for Vicks VapoRub, the vaporizing ointment which proved so valuable during the 1918 epidemic, has already shattered by a wide margin all previous records.

Although the capacity of the Vicks Laboratories has been tripled since 1918, they are once more operating night shifts. The present output is more than 375,000 jars every 24 hours.

Mild though it is in comparison with 1918, this year's epidemic has already affected more than a million persons, and it is apparently still increasing—adv.

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90 per cent of all sicknesses start with stomach and bowel trouble.

A white or yellowish coating on your tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders. It tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

And it's a sign you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks. See how the first bottle helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.
